Trip Overview

The Everest region, also known as the Khumbu region, lies on the northeastern side of Nepal within the Solukhumbu district. Crowned by Mount Everest—the highest peak on Earth at 8,848.86 meters—the area is widely considered the "Roof of the World" due to its immense height. Mount Everest itself is situated directly on the international border between Nepal and China. In the Tibetan language, it is known as Chomolungma, which translates to "Goddess Mother of the World."

To preserve the fragile high-altitude ecosystem, the core of the region is protected under the strict conservation guidelines of Sagarmatha National Park, a globally recognized UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Geographically, the elevation of the Khumbu region ranges dramatically from roughly 2,800 meters up to the 8,848.86-meter summit. This rugged terrain is home to world-famous Himalayan villages such as Namche Bazaar, Khumjung, and Pheriche. The area is primarily settled by the indigenous Sherpa and Rai communities, whose lives are deeply intertwined with the mountains. The region seamlessly blends a dramatic high-altitude landscape with a rich, vibrant cultural heritage, beautifully expressed through the many famous Buddhist monasteries located throughout the valley.

Through Chola pass trail we link the standard trail of Everest base camp with the Gokyo lakes valley trail. The virtual structural bridge helps to complete a magnificent loop of this region.
